A magic winter walk in Bad Ragaz

Tamina Lumina – this is the name of the latest show by the makers of Light Ragaz

For two years now, the Tamina gorge has been enchanting its visitors with a fantastic sea of lights. Now, the world-famous health resort itself is going to be illuminated. At the years' most contemplative time, unprecedented projections will tell a brilliant and colourful epic.

A magic tale

From November 24th until January 12th, visitors of Tamina Lumina are taken on a fairy-tale journey. At six locations, light is projected onto the best know facades of the town, using various technologies. For example, visitors will move across the Tamina on the old bath bridge. Projections onto the waterfall show a little boy Paracelsus getting lost during a millennium flood. The magical search for Paracelsus tells a fictional tale about how the secret mineral spring water of Bad Ragaz was discovered. A race against time starts – and visitors follow the illuminated traces of Paracelsus through the old town centre.

A world of imagination you can touch

Tamina Lumina proudly presents the first completely immersive room in Switzerland. On more than 300 square metres, visitors are free to explore a room that is covered by projections from top to bottom. All movements of the visitors are recognized so that all animations will react intuitively to their movements. Tamina Lumina is a new, bright-shining gem in the list of achievements of the artists collective "Projekttil". Creative director Roman Beranek has one again acted as a real pioneer: "We have turned the ancient laundry facilities of Bad Ragaz into an immersive world. I can guarantee that Switzerland hasn't seen anything like this before. Here, you literally can't help it - you dive in, you lose yourself – just like Paracelsus did way back when."
